Difficult to Pick Victors in Most Events of A. A. U.

Games.

COLLEGIANS LOOK STRONG

Club Men Will Be Hard Pressed by Stars of Educational Institutions.

Never on the eve of an A. A. U. championship meet has there been such an element of doubt as to the ultimate winners of most of the events as exists to-day in regard to the title games of the Union to be held in Madison Square Garden to-morrow night. Since the last indoor championships many of the title-holders have met with defeat and the in and out running of several of the stars renders it difficult to forecast the winners. Added to the doubt of the ability of many of the club athletes to maintain their supremacy is the strong front presented by the collegians, who just now are rounding into form in preparation for their own championships later in the

Tom Halpin, who was considered a cer-tainty for any event in which he elected to compete, met with a setback when he was defeated in the 300 yards at the Royal Arcanum games last Monday, and Reyal Arcanum games last Monday, and the impression prevails that the strenuous campaign he has gone through has delied the speed of the Boston wonder. He is scheduled for the 600 yards, and the recent form shown by the Olympic winner, Ted Meredith, assures a thrilling race, even if Halpin should be at his best. There is a possibility that Abel Kiviat, who best Meredith in winning this event last year, may also be a starter, but in any event Mel Sneppard will carry the colors of the Irish-American A. C. and the peerless one is of the opinion that he has the one is of the opinion that he has less one is of the opinion that he has the Indian sign on Meredith. Homer Baker, now at the top of his form, also has ex-pressed his intention of starting in this event, as his first effort in the 1,000 yards will be made early in the evening, while the 600 will be one of the last races on the card

Baker and Kiviat will be the headliners in the 1,000, but both may be taken into camp by one of the collegians. Madeira of Pennsylvania will try for the honor, and another dangerous man is F. W. Capper of Harvard, who ran third to Capper by Brown and Long to the control of th

Platt Adams will try again for the standing jumps and pole vault for distance.
In the latter event he will be opposed by Harry Babcock, the Olympic winner for height, who will attempt to come back after a season of crew work. The Irish American A. C. will be strong in the weight events, though the club will miss the services of Pat Ryan, who is entered as unattached. A close three cornered fight is looked for in the point struggle, with the New York A. C., Irish American A. C. and Boston A. A., the contenders.

Indirectly the fact that one so young should reach such a stage of proficiency at the game does not find favor among those now in the class A group. When the matter was brought up recently at the Amateur Billiard Club of New York, where the tourney will be held, J. Ferdinand Poggenburg, the American international champion, said:

"There is a feeling among the players of the class A division that the National Association should not encourage boys to play in its premier championship tournaments. It is self evident to all of us that a boy of 15 or 16 should be giving his attention to his educational studies and thinking of something other than winning billiard titles. It is impossible to imagine a boy of such an age properly leaving his schooling for a month or thereabouts to take part in a national tournament.

most engines is full of faults — both in design and construction. Its unsealed opening permits constant leakage of gas and the ingress of oil into the combustion chamber. Having but a single point of expansion, uniform bearing is impossible, and a little wear increases this defect. Rings, also, of three or more pieces lose in strength and wearing quality what they try to gain in other ways. The only perfect gas- and oil-tight rings are the
